"Hilarious...Gomez at the top of her game." –Rob Hurwitt, SF Chronicle
" Funny...engaging...wickedly self-effacing " –Jean Schiffman, SF Examiner
" An enchanting stroll/lurch down a memory lane" –Richard Dodds, Bay Area Reporter

San Francisco (December 8, 2011) – The Marsh San Francisco, is delighted to announce Marga Gomez's final extension of her hit show, NOT GETTING ANY YOUNGER, from January 5 through February 25, 2012. The show, which opened to rave reviews last September, is a 'coming of middle age' story which begins during an idyllic childhood visit to a dairy cow's boudoir in the Bronx. Afterwards, Gomez endures a youth marked by adult hostility and is forced to live by the maxim "children should be seen and not heard." She perseveres through these "soul crushing" early years with the false hope that when she's older she can order children about. But in 2012, children call the shots, adults shoot botox and Gomez has to put up with young salesclerks calling her Ma'am, driving her toward murder at a Forever 21 department store.

Marga Gomez, the recipient of the "Outstanding Solo Performance" 2010 Bay Area Critics Circle Award, is the author/performer of eight more solo plays including Long Island Iced Latina, Los Big Names and Marga Gomez is Pretty, Witty & Gay, which have been produced nationally, internationally and in New York at The Public Theater, The 47th Street Theater, Performance Space 122, Dixon Place and La Mama. She has also been nominated for The New York Drama Desk Award. Her debut solo piece Memory Tricks premiered at The Marsh in 1991 and she is thrilled to return 20 years later.
