

Dan Hoyle's THE REAL AMERICANS
Returns To
THE MARSH San Francisco
February 17 – March 18, 2012

"Impressive, hilarious, moving and provocative"—Rob Hurwitt, SF Chronicle

"Mr. Hoyle is both a first-rate reporter and actor"—NY Times

(San Francisco, December 13, 2012) – After touring to Philadelphia, Cleveland, NY, Santa Fe and Portland, Dan Hoyle's critically acclaimed and overwhelmingly popular hit show, THE REAL AMERICANS returns to San Francisco from February 17 – March 18, 2012, just as the presidential election kicks into gear. Directed by Charlie Varon, the show connects two worlds that usually prefer to stay apart: the liberal, achingly hip, moral-relativism of gentrified city life and the conservative, absolutist, and often hostile populism that Dan found overflowing in small-town America. Living out of his van and sleeping in backyards and Walmart parking lots, he shared meals and conversation with cowboys, coal miners, soldiers, rural drug dealers, itinerant preachers, closeted gay fundamentalists and creation theory experts. Frequently grateful for their hospitality, often perplexed by their beliefs, he sought to see the world through their eyes and understand their anger.

A native San Franciscan, Dan is the creator of his own unique form of journalistic theater. He won the prestigious 2007 Will Glickman 'Best New Play' Award for his previous show, "Things Dey Happen," which enjoyed extended runs at The Marsh and also Off-Broadway, where it was nominated for a Lucille Lortel Award for Outstanding Solo Show. Dan is thrilled to be to be once more playing in tandem with his father, Geoff Hoyle, whose hit show Geezer also returns to The Marsh in February.
